VENTURA COUNTY DAY MAY 1

KPEK 90.7 MC FM

Tune in on Ventura

For the station staff and for our subscribers I welcome Ventura County Day to our programming with this special Folio. This is probably the first time in the history of radio that one complete day of broadcasting will be devoted to the history, interests, aims and directions of a single county.

The entire day's programming was produced by residents of Ventura County. I must extend my special thanks to Dick Johnson, one of KPFK's devoted volunteers, who acted as Project Coordinator for the station. In recent months he has commuted daily between the station, his job, and Ventura County Headquarters. I am certain he will find this unique day of broadcasting a fitting tribute to his energy and ability.

It is our hope that the pleasures and triumphs of our Ventura County programming teams, in the face of deadlines and tribulations, will move them to remain together and prepare programs of significance for future offering on KPFK and our sister stations of Pacifica Radio. This Ventura County volunteer producing team is an active counterpart of our station staff, and we look forward to working with them.

Robert Adler, Station Manager

When Robert Adler approved the Ventura County Day project, he specified two criteria: that the customary program format be followed as closely as possible and that the program content be appropriate for listeners all over Southern California as well as those in Ventura County. No other qualifications or recommendations were stated or implied.

As even a full day's broadcasting would merely skim the possible material, the resulting twenty-three programs represent a grudging compromise with space limitations, as well as samplings of programs to anticipate in the future.

Space limitations also prevent me from listing here the countless supporters who helped make Ventura County Day a reality. I hope to acknowledge my debt and gratitude to these people on the program Ventura County Day: An Evaluation, (6:30 p.m.)

There are, however, four individuals to whom I owe a very special note of thanks. Fred Hall of radio station KVEN, Ventura, not only gave freely of his very limited time, but made available his broadcast studios for many of our programs. Gita Hall, of Ventura Group Theater, did a magnificent job of coordinating our two radio plays. Our project headquarters was the home of Don (our cover artist) and Jacky Wallace in Camarillo, which they shared with me on the many nights I could not return to Los Angeles. In return for their hospitality they were privy to the groans of anguish, howls of laughter and strings of oaths that attended this project. Whatever health and sanity I have managed to retain, I owe to them.

Dick Johnson, Project Coordinator

About KPFK and Pacifica Foundation Radio

KPFK is a unique radio station serving Southern California. Like its sister stations, WBAI in New York City and KPFA in Berkeley, it presents programs without commercial sponsorship and is entirely supported by voluntary subscriptions from interested listeners in its broadcast area.

The KPFK Folio, a bi-weekly guide, is sent to each subscriber. Because KPFK's programming is varied and differs in structure and makeup from day to day and week to week, the Folio is an essential aid to discriminating listening. KPFK relies on its individual listeners to select those programs which are of the most interest to them, among hundreds of offerings in Public Affairs and News, Literature and Drama, Music, and Programs For Young People.

Awards to KPFK and its staff for programming have been numerous. During the more than five years KPFK has served Southern California, it has received the coveted duPont Radio Award, the George Foster Peabody Award, several Ohio State Competition prizes and an official commendation by the California State Assembly and Legislature. Last month, our Music Director, William Malloch, received the Bruckner Society Award for last summer's Mahler series.

KPFK, as a listener-supported radio station, is free to serve the community, to explore all areas of human thought and endeavor, to innovate in broadcasting techniques and to challenge its listeners. Its commitment is to the positive aspects of freedom and to the search for truth.

We invite you to listen to KPFK, 90.7 on your FM dial. KPFK broadcasts every day, beginning at 7:00 a.m. on weekdays and at 8:00 a.m. on weekends. The broadcast day ends at midnight, with exceptions which can be found, along with complete listings of all programs, in the Folio.

You can support KPFK's broadcasting by subscribing for $15 for one year. You will receive the Folio every two weeks during that time. Or, for a look at a complete Folio, simply call or write the station for a copy.
